Raised-line Tiles

Raised-line decoration was a technique developed in the late 19th Century and was used extensively during the Arts and Crafts and Art Nouveau periods. The outline of the pattern was embossed on to the tile body and different coloured glazes were applied to the "walled" sections created.

The Original Style Rose and Bud tile set is a faithful reproduction of this style using specially developed modern production techniques.

Relief Moulded Tiles

With delightful Art Nouveau styling, this highly detailed, 3-tile set is produced by a raised pattern technique called Relief Moulding. Each tile is 'slip cast' in elegantly sculptured moulds and then dry fired before being individually hand painted by one of our skilled artists. After glazing and a further firing in a high temperature kiln, the result is a unique piece that will provide pleasure for years to come.

Tube Lined Single Tiles

This highly skilled method of decoration evolved towards the latter part of the 19th Century and was used to embellish ornaments, such as bowls and vases, as well as ceramic tiles. It requires the outline for each design to be piped by hand onto the tile. Different coloured translucent glazes are then applied – again by hand – to separate areas of the design to create exquisite works of art.
